LORD BEACONSFIELD made av amusing mistake recently as, buried in thought, he entered the House or Lords. He abstractedly strolled up to the Ministerial bench, and was about to take his eld seat as leader of the House, when he recognized Esrl Granville already in possession. He immediately retired and, skirting the at Damascus I was fortunate enough table, took the seat opposite. The mistake created great merrimens, Lord Beaconsfield himself heartily joining in the laughter. H. Buehman, PHOTOGRAPHER.
